A TYPICAL HALLOWEEN IN THE USA

When I was a kid, my favorite holiday was Halloween. In the United States, it's a very popular celebration. Houses are usually decorated with skeletons, jack-o-lanterns, and other scary ornaments. At school, we normally have Halloween parties. The children can dress in costumes and watch scary movies. At night, our parents will take us trick-or-treating. We walk from house to house, asking for candy by singing "Trick-or-treat!"

THE HAUNTED HOUSE

Every year, my friends and I go to a Haunted House. The best house is on Washington Street. They always have the most candy, decorations, and monsters.

When we go trick-or-treating, we usually wear scary costumes. This year Jerry will be a ghost, Dana will be a witch, and I'm going as the devil. Jerry will wear a white sheet from his bed. Dana will carry a witch's broom and wear a hat. For my costume, I will carry a pitchfork and wear horns on my head.

On Halloween night you can see every type of monster, superhero, or famous person on the street. But when you enter the house it is dark and quiet. My favorite part is when you can see bats flying over your head and spiders crawling on the walls.

Jerrys' favorite monster is Frankenstein. He is extremely tall and green! He is probably the scariest monster in the haunted house.

Dana loves the pirate room because they give you candy and sing. If you sing with them you get more candy.

When you leave the house, werewolves teach you how to howl at the moon. Each room is unique and interesting and just part of the reason why Halloween is so fun.

THE CREEPY CARD GAME

1. Two students will be given 12 cards with pictures on them
2. The teacher says 1 word related to Halloween
  1. Example: Vampire
3. Students try to find the picture of the word
4. Students will raise their hands with vocabulary card and show the teacher. If you answer correctly, you keep the card.
5. At the end of the game, the student that has more cards – gets more candy.

HALLOWEEN!!
